The emerging of new technologies always significantly influences society and the way it act. The same situation happened when we faced with internet, social networking sites etc. I believe that these technologies have provided people a vast amount of opportunities to protect their personal freedom. For instance, now people can easily reveal the truth on social media about some unfair corp's decisions or inappropriate employer's attitude to employees. Concerning mobile phones, it has become much more efficient to call to a police or to protect yours rights. Now it is much more difficult to commit financial or any other crime, because almost all information has is publicly available. So that means that new technologies have given us more freedom.

In my opinion the changes that have been arised from new technologies are mostly positive, because using the existence of internet gives people more a lot of chances to succeed in life, also different some different gadgets such as mobile phones just simply make people's life easier and happier. In general,

I consider that changes that have been brought us by technologies are influenced society in a good way. However, we should not forget that some individuals, even whole families or companies suffer from revealing private information
